They would meet periodically in the same spot. Briny did not know that Leopold was going every day to the sea's edge in hopes to see her. The two saw each other more and more often as the time went by. Within in no time at all they would meet as the blue skies were painted gold by the setting sun every day.

One day Leopold told Briny of his love for her. He had little money or treasurers he said as he looked down. She took his face in her hands and lifted it up. "By dear, that is not a problem, go ahead and go on." He did, asking Briny if he would be his wife. She replied yes and what the results would be. Some of their children would be mermaids and some would be humans. Leopold said that was not a problem. "With you're gold, we will build a huge house and all shall live there, with us dear." Both smiled, giggled and held hands tightly. Soon they were wed and that is how it came to pass.

Coral divided what they had found into piles and gave a treasure chest to each of her child and grandchild to do with as they wanted. One grand daughter, Briny. She was very attractive. Some thought naïve (but just the opposite was true). All-in-all she was very smart.

Briny was said by some that she had the spunk of a pirate. So she quickly added to her loot mounds and mounds of gold pieces. She never told anyone anything.

One day Briny (Nixie and Dixie's mom) was swimming out by the edge of the sea and she met a human. Leopold was so very cute.. Briny thought he had muscle upon muscles.

The talk did not go well, as Coral feared. Carol had talked for so long, that the captain could not overpower the mermaid and soon lost the battle due to the lack of air when Coral held the captain down.

One time, when the Captain Bart was with Coral at the shoreline. He was drunk. He told her many of his secrets. Like where he stored the extra swords. He also told Coral where the maps were. With the maps anyone could find where all his treasure were hidden. After the captain washed to shore and there was no fear of the other pirates, Coral and her youngsters went and got the maps. Soon the merlot of mermaids were in possession of all the captain's loot. Loot? You know the good stuff he had taken from others. It was a lot because he had been a pirate for a very Nixie and Dixie felt so fortunate that they could live their life's in this big bathtub. They did not have to worry about all the things that mermaids of the past had to face.

With that thought in mind, they began to think how nice it was to live in the big mansion with so many bathrooms. In this bathroom they would live their very long lives out.

Their grandmother, Asherah often told the girls of how the life turned around and things came about. Giving the sisters the details that took them from being their merlot of Mermaids, living deep in sea to their life of leisure in their wonderful bathtub.

Each one of the sisters knew their grandmother's official sea name was Princess Asherah because she was the one that walked the bottom of the sea and collected all facts to be written in the scrolls of the Season.

Each time the grandmother told the story, more and more details were added.

As the grandmother would tell you the story of century's ago, there was a mermaid by the name of Coral and she started to fall in love with this mean pirate. Captain Bart knew Coral was the jewel of his life. He learned to hold his breathe for so very long that could visit her far below the water's surface..

After a while, Coral saw the captain's purpose for her love was not honest nor pure like she had hoped. She gathered her courage and prepared herself to talk to him about it. She knew he would be weak from going without air if she kept him deep under the oceans. So she set forth her plan.

If the talk didn't go well she must be prepared. "Oh, my little mermaids must be safe." See thought and then she had them all put on fish costumes. So she could see them but the captain could not.
